

HEAP
(Health Education Assessment Project)
Web-based Assessment
Orientation Opportunity

As Vermont educators work to implement district wide assessment, there is an ever-increasing need to find ways to assess student learning using effective, efficient and alternative strategies. As a member state of the HEAP (Health Education Assessment Project) through SCASS (State Collaborative on Assessment of Student Standards), we are able to provide teachers in health education with a bank of assessment items that are available on the web.

The web-based system provides for a variety of options from simply storing paper tests to online assessment, giving immediate feedback of student responses which can guide instruction to meet student strengths and challenges. As you think about the future, this workshop will give you an opportunity to explore the web-based assessment system and how its use might be integrated within your school and/or district.

There is no cost to this workshop and a light snack will be provided.

By the end of the workshop, participants will have:

- Reviewed assessment items from the database (selected and constructed response/ extended response and performance tasks)
- Explored the web-based assessment system
- Identified how they might use the web-based assessment system within their school/district

Who: Health Educators
When: May 13, 2010
Where: Missisquoi Valley Union High School
Time: 2:30 – 7:00 PM

To register click: <http://www.surveymonkey.com/s/BB78KS5>